"IT'S ONLY A COLD" has sent thousands to premature graves. A cold stops up the avenues of the system, and disease must result. Neglected, most violent remedies must be used to remove the obstruction. Taken timely, a few doses of

Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient

will carry off naturally the cause of the suffering, and save days, months, or even years of suffering.

THE ASSASSINATION.

AT BROOKLYN.
Brooklyn, 2.—Business suspended.
AT BALTIMORE.
Baltimore, 2.—Excitement in the city is intense.

AT ALBANY.
Albany, 2.—A dispatch was received in the assembly at 12 o'clock, saying the President was conscious, but the result was doubtful, which caused great sadness. In the assembly, after reading the journal, Murphy moved that he house take recess till 11:55. He said he made the motion in consequence of the terrible news received from Washington. He said the act just committed was too great for execution, too stupendous for adequate punishment. The minority of this house would mingle its feeling of condemnation with those of the entire country and the world. In the senate the following resolution was offered:

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the President and his family, and at the same time express our horror and indignation at the atrocious attempt made upon his life.

McCarthy said while he agreed with much of the resolution, yet he wished to defer an expression of indignation until the particulars were received from the White House. He, however, did not object to the resolution, which was then adopted by a viva voce vote.

The senate took recess. During recess Robertson received press dispatches, which were read from the desk, senators and employees gathered about the reader. Similar resolutions were passed by the assembly.

AT CHARLOTTESVILLE.

Charlottesville, 2.—Intense indignation here upon the news of the attempted assassination.

AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, 2.—Excitement and indignation are unusual. The streets are thronged and the feeling against the assassin is intense.

AT LANSING.

Lansing, 2.—The greenback meeting adopted a resolution deploring and condemning this second attempt to deprive our republic of its legitimate head, and we demand that all the power of government be put in force to punish this and all such acts of violence and violations of law.

8:30 p.m.—The President is sleeping pleasantly and more comfortably, pulse 128, temperature 99, slightly above normal; respiration 22, and more regular.

(Signed) D. W. BLISS.
The following telegram was received by Secretary Blaine:

NEW YORK, July 2d.
To Hon. James G. Blaine, Secretary of State.

Your telegram with us. Deplorable narration did not reach me promptly owing to my absence. I am profoundly shocked at the dreadful news. The hopes you express relieve somewhat the horror of the first announcement. I wait for further intelligence with anxiety. Express to the President and those about him my great grief and sympathy, in which the whole American people will join.

(Signed) C. A. ARTHUR.
10:40 p.m.—The President's symptoms continue to grow more favorable, and to afford more ground for hope. His temperature is now normal. His pulse has fallen four beats since the last official bulletin, and the absence of blood in the discharge from the bladder shows that organ is not injured as had been feared.

INCIDENTS AND NOTES.

The following is condensed from voluminous telegraphic reports received last night:

Toronto, Canada, was greatly excited.

Guiteau lived in Milwaukee during 1878-79, and was thought to be half insane. He was known as a pettifogger and defender of evil women. He was debarred from practicing in the courts.

Guiteau says he went to Long Branch to shoot the President, but was deterred by the enfeebled condition of Mrs. Garfield.

Blaine sent to Arthur that he would keep him advised of the President's condition. Guiteau went to Washington in February with many recommendations to secure the United States consulship at Marseilles. He boarded with a Mrs. Lockwood, acted strangely at times, and when his bill was presented could not pay it.

Guiteau preyed upon General Logan to get his influence. There is a theory in Washington that the assassination was not the work of a lunatic, but the result of a deep and dark plot.

There was great excitement in Denver over the news. Guiteau was about to shoot a third time, when Blaine throttled him and threw him to the ground.

Some think that Guiteau also intended to shoot Blaine.

When Bob Ingersoll called on the President, the latter stretched out his hand and said, "I'm glad you have come."

Senator Jones, of Nevada, says neither Conkling nor Arthur knows anything of Guiteau.

Business was almost suspended at the departments in Washington, on Saturday.

There was intense excitement at Buffalo.

Mrs. Garfield knew all when she left Long Branch.

The approaches to the White House are guarded by troops.

An indignation meeting was held in Raleigh, N. C., on Saturday night. Excitement, sorrow, indignation and anxiety was manifest all over Indiana.

At Nashville there was universal horror.

Guiteau shows no symptoms of insanity. It is said he had an accomplice.

LATEST BULLETINS.

Washington, 11 p.m.—The following official bulletin is just issued. The President is resting quietly and is cheerful, pulse 124, temperature 99, respiration 20. All symptoms are favorable. (Signed) D. M. BLISS, M. D.

11 p.m.—Mrs. Garfield, although still weak from her recent illness, and shocked by the suddenness of grief, which has come to her, has behaved since her arrival with courage and self-control equal to her husband. Not only has she not given way to the terror and grief which she necessarily feels, but she has been constantly by the President's side encouraging him with her presence and sympathy and giving efficient aid, so far as it has been in her power, to the attending physicians.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 3 a.m.

The attending physicians feel so hopeful now that another bulletin will not be issued until 7 a.m.
